Guidelines

Summit County's Incumbent Worker Training (IWT) program offers employers a way to subsidize the cost of training employees in obtaining the skills necessary to retain employment, avert layoffs, and/or increase the employees' and company's competitiveness. Our Business Services team at the OMJ Center will help you complete paperwork so you can focus on making an investment in your workforce!

- IWT is available to all sector industries.
- Between 50-90% of the cost of training can be subsidized, depending on the size of the employer.
- Employees must be with the employer for at least 6 months to qualify for IWT.
- Employees must make at least $13/hour after completing their training program.
- The University of Akron and Stark State College are available to work with employers to develop a training program to fit their needs.
- Training programs must award participants an industry-recognized credential at the completion of training.
